Re: The enclosed 5th January 2008 Petition of Dr. Prim Singh; Dr. Jeremy P. Brown; Ms. Pauline Ward and Mr. Douglas J.T. Currie

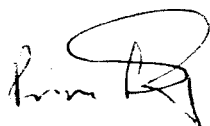

Ma'am,

Please find our enclosed self explanatory petition for the termination of Professor Ian Wilmut's knighthood. Should you require further details or evidence we will be happy to provide.

While but four former employees of Roslin (Home of Dolly the Sheep) have appended our names to this petition – our sentiment is shared by numerous others – many of which have been gagged with the receipt of substantial severance payments running into many hundreds of thousands.

As you may realise we do feel very bitter that not only has our own work not been fully recognised but we appear to have been used and spit out in a perceived elaborate financial and scientific scam – a scam which does little to motivate new scientific advancement. This charade reflects very badly on alleged Scottish cronyism -- a charade which Professor Wilmut's knighthood is perceived now to endorse. In short Wilmut's knighthood is seen as the crowning insult to honest endeavour – Roslin; Edinburgh University; and Scotland are all tarnished with this grant. We beg reconsideration.

Yours sincerely

Dr Prim Singh

To make matters right

Ma'am,

As our humble duty, we draw to Your Majesty's attention:

1. In the New Honours list of 2008 mention is made to the grant of a knighthood to Professor Ian Wilmut, of 5 Old Manse Road, Eddleston, Peebleshire, Scotland, in recognition to his service to science especially as the 'creator of Dolly the Sheep' at the Roslin Institute.
2. The undersigned being ex-colleagues of Professor Ian Wilmut respectfully request that such grant is refused, recalled or reduced.
3. Such refusal, recall or reduction is sought because:
 - a. Professor Ian Wilmut is a self confessed 'charlatan' – namely he admits that he was not 'Dolly's' creator.
 - b. Professor Ian Wilmut's peers confirm that:
 - i. He appears technically incompetent.
 - ii. He apparently lacks adequate scientific understanding.
4. The undersigned have grave doubts as to honesty and integrity of the prior running of the Roslin Institute
 - (a) As to financial matters.
 - (b) As to management ethics.

5. The undersigned believe that Professor Ian Wilmut may have conspired with others to obtain advantage and an honour to which he is not entitled should the true facts be known.
6. Enclosed herewith and incorporated herein is a specification in support of our concerns.
7. Your Majesty's power to withhold or revoke the Royal Assent.

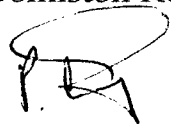

WHEREFORE it is our humble duty TO PETITION Your Majesty

- To withhold, recall or reduce the Royal Assent from the knighthood of Professor Ian Wilmut.
- To uphold and preserve the rights, freedoms and customs of your loyal subjects, which you, our Sovereign, swore before the nation to uphold and preserve in your Coronation Oath of June 1953.

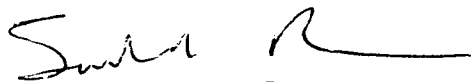

We have the honour to be Your Majesty's loyal and obedient subjects.

1. Dr. Prim Singh, of 50, Comiston Road, Edinburgh, EH10 5QQ
2. Dr. Jeremy P. Brown, 503, Forest St., Apartment 5, Oakland, CA 94618, USA

4. Mr. Douglas J.T. Currie, 4, Whinny View, Aberlady, EH32 0UJ, East Lothian

Summary Specification to accompany 5th January 2008 Petition of Dr. Prim Singh; Dr. Jeremy P. Brown; Ms. Pauline Ward and Mr. Douglas J.T. Currie to Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth

A detailed specification along with relevant exhibits and productions may be found at martinfrost.ws at http://www.martinfrost.ws/htmlfiles/jan2008/petition_wilmut.html

3 (a) –In 2006, while testifying at an Edinburgh court in which Professor Wilmut lost an unfair dismissal action by Dr. Prim Singh, Wilmut denied the accusations, but acknowledged that he was not the 'father' or "creator" of Dolly, that he performed none of the experiments, and that he has minimised the role of some of his fellows.

3 (bi) – Professor Wilmut had/has a tremor that does not allow him to undertake any micromanipulation experiments, which is a necessary pre-requisite for the “Dolly” experiment. The experiment was actually carried out by Mr. Bill Ritchie. The e-mail from Harry Griffin to Dr. Singh (28 May 2002) relates of how the expertise for cloning had gone (was lost) yet Wilmut was still at the Institute!

3 (bii) The idea underpinning the “Dolly” experiment, “quiescence”, was that of Keith Campbell: note- Professor Sharp’s statement that Wilmut had behaved previously in the same way before (i.e. stealing credit).

4 (a) - Probable corruption re: illegal TUPE transfer of Roslin Institute mouse-house work to Bantin and Kingman (Graham Bulfield, Director of Roslin Institute at the time was consultant and non-executive director of B&K). Note: Nicky Kinsey is Bulfield’s daughter and worked for B&K at the time of the TUPE transfer and was the person who would take charge of the Roslin Institute facilities.

- Questionable current outsourcing of supplies to B&K.
- Perceived false accounting of ‘mouse house usage’.
- Suicide of John Clark: Some argue that Clark’s conscience got the better of him – but there were ongoing queries as to his wealth and lifestyle not ignoring his purported fraudulent receipt of around £500,000 from sale of shares received after Roslin Biomed was sold to Geron Biomed. Note: a similar sum was paid to Ian Wilmut (see Public Accounts Committee minutes on “Reaping the rewards of agricultural research” in House of Commons and the newspaper article: “I got the lolly and didn’t clone Dolly”)

- Alleged financial irregularities surrounding the Animal Biotech Cambridge Company run by the professed pornographer Philip Paxman with Professor E.C. Polge (Polge was Wilmut’s PhD supervisor). Paxman sponsored the Dolly the Sheep programme and thus collaborated with Ian Wilmut and Grahame Bulfield.
- Financial mis-management and mis-appropriation of funds. In or around 1998/9 the Logan building was built at a cost of £1.2million (funded by EU, Scottish Enterprise) and housed Rosgen and Roslin Nutrition companies until around 2002. Rosgen was closed down by its backers, which included Roslin Institute and venture capitalists 3I. Roslin Nutrition decided to move to the Feedmill and applied to Scottish Enterprise for funding of the move. However, unbeknownst to Roslin Nutrition John Withers (secretary to Roslin Institute) had already obtained funding for the move from Scottish Enterprise (approximately £30,000). Little of this money was ever seen by Roslin Nutrition.
- Financial mis-management. The CREC building was built at a cost of around £1.6million, while the predicted budget was around £1million. Major cost was for climate chambers to undertake work funded by DEFRA, EU and private contracts. Very little of this has come to pass and the building remains largely empty.
- Alleged insider trading when shares in Geron Biomed and PPL (a company set up by John Clark) rose after cloning of pigs.

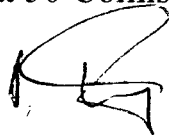

4(b) - The theft of scientific credit for financial gain and academic hubris by Wilmut. The shoddy treatment of many Roslin employees as is demonstrated by the plethora of successful damage actions against Roslin Institute.

5. Amongst the others it is believed that Grahame Bulfield; Julia Good fellow; Sir Muir Russell; and Professor Maggie Gill may have had a role and derived benefit.

We have the honour to be Your Majesty's loyal and obedient subjects.
